PITCHING HEALTHY PROGRAM

Pitching Healthy is Presented by PBI and the Baseball Health Network

Why the Pitching Healthy Program?

The professional and experienced staff and consulting team at PBI has designed the best pitching program available for today's pitching athletes. With an epidemic of arm injuries occurring constantly in baseball, we MUST address the reasons why this is happening and AVOID the training methods that contribute to increased probability of injury to our pitchers. PBI understands the demand for increased velocity in today's athlete, but it must be done properly in accordance with the athlete's age and his current physical strength and stability levels. There are several DON'TS when training pitchers. Let us train you in a HEALTHY manner to avoid injury and improve overall pitching skill and ability.

PITCHING HEALTHY. The name says it all !!!!!!!!!!!!!

PROGRAM DETAILS

OVERVIEW: All pitchers will be taught to command their fastball. Each pitcher will work at his individual pace, until he can execute both his fastballs (2 and 4 seam) properly. Once that task is achieved, we go to the secondary pitch. Usually a breaking ball of some sort, one that best matches his arm slot and natural rotation. Slider, curveball, sweeper, cutter, etc. are all considered breaking balls. We (player and coach) will determine which breaking ball is best for the pitcher and will offer consistency with confidence. Then we focus on a third pitch, usually a change-up of some sort. We teach the physics of all the pitches and explain what factors influence the flight of the pitch. There are probably at least 10 different ways to attempt to throw a change-up, once the players understand the physics, we can then decide which grips will work best for each pitcher and the best method to achieve consistency with it, once again pairing the arm angles and look of the individual pitchers fastball as our determining factors. This is referred to as "tunneling". All pitches should look the same coming out of your hand, arm slot, arm speed, with identical body position, for maximum efficacy for each type of pitch. Then repeat it pitch after pitch.

EVALUATION: Each Pitching Healthy athlete will have their current level of overall strength, skill, range of motion (ROM), and upper and lower body stability (how well you control your body during athletic movements) tested. We will determine, through that testing, an individual strength program for each athlete. Goals will be to increase strength, and lower the injury risk factor(s) that are currently present in the athlete. Each athlete will be getting a personalized program. All workouts and lifts will be monitored.

STRENGTH TRAINING: The pitching healthy program will be using the NEW GYM set-up at PBI. All players will receive a personalized workout designed specifically for them as an individual. Our gym will be available to our pitchers throughout length of the pitching healthy program, and at specified times and days during the week.

PROGRAM ALSO INCLUDES: Pitching mechanic drills, pick-off moves, defensive play – covering first -fielding bunts – covering home on passed balls, teach pitchers how to call their own pitches, tricks used by Major League pitchers and coaches to increase movement and command of their pitches.

LISTEN TO THE PBI STAFF AND CONSULTING TEAM

According to PBI consultant and legendary pitching coach Leo Mazzone, the formula to being a successful, winning pitcher is:

Command the fastball. Own a 2nd pitch you have confidence in. Change speeds effectively off of the fastball. Develop a put 'em away pitch.

PBI coach Steve Hayward, NY Yankees team doctor and PBI consultant Dr. Christopher Ahmad, have created the Baseball Health Network (BHN). The BHN is committed to understanding kinetics and the mechanics associated with the throwing motion and the factors that contribute to arm injury. The BHN understands what is actually harmful to pitchers arm health. All of the BHN data will be translated from the PBI coaching staff to our throwing athletes in the Pitching Healthy Program.

MENTAL TRAINING: Coach Doug Cinnella will be tapping into the brain and using his mind set program for success that will begin in the mind and flow through the body and into the ball for an airtight, unbeatable thought process every time you're on the mound. This is the most important part of any pitchers make-up. Confidence, mental toughness and positive expectations every time you pitch. Pitching is an easy task. Don't make it tougher than it is.

THROWING MECHANICS EVALUATION: Coach Steve Hayward will be analyzing all pitchers mechanics and pinpointing weaknesses that need attention. In order to throw with maximum velocity, the mechanics need to be solid. All body direction needs to be on line. What's the point of throwing hard but not being able to throw a strike?? We solve that problem, quickly, easily, matter-of-factly !!! PBI will also be using proven methods of arm strengthening that increase velocity without the risky movements today's pitchers are being taught. Too many young players are performing extremely risky throwing drills to increase velocity. It's a terrible mess out there. Let PBI get you on track in a responsible way that will keep you healthy. Can't play if you're not on the field. We keep you on the field.
